When President Roosevelt goes aboard ship next week and starts for Panama he will be doing something that none of his twenty-five predecessors in the executive chair ever attempted, and that is to journey beyond the boundary lines of the United States during his term of office.

For three weeks, beginning on November 8th, the Government of the United States will be run by wireless telegraphy, with the executive officials on board the battleship Louisiana all the way from Chesapeake Bay to Panama, and from Panama to Porto Rico and back to Chesapeake Bay. The Louisiana is being fitted up with the most efficient wireless system. The President does not propose to be out of touch with the United States at any time, no matter in what foreign waters he may be.
